RITIOUS STRIKERS.

The Troops Find Great Difficulty in Dispersing the Mob.

BOULANGIER, September 9th.—The strikers made a riotous demonstration to-night, and were only dispersed at the point of the bayonet. The trouble began with the dock laborers preventing the departure of several trains. Two companies of infantry arrived and drove the mob away from the rails.

The dockmen made a desperate attempt to break the line formed by the troops. Several of them were shot and killed. The troops were then ordered to fire, and the mob was dispersed. A number of strikers were wounded, and some of the soldiers seriously wounded. Volleys were fired on both sides, and the troops and several soldiers were severely injured.

The Mayor read the riot act. This only added to the fury of the mob, a portion of which surrounded the Mayor's residence, and smashed every window in the place. The troops were then ordered to fire, and the mob was dispersed. A number of strikers were wounded, and some of the soldiers seriously wounded. Volleys were fired on both sides, and the troops and several soldiers were severely injured.
